THURSDAY, DEC. 9, 1886. SATINA-ITO PRESENT AND FUTURE. Even before the root domistles of the ploneers of Selins had passed away it was predicted that she would scome the chief city of this grand region. Founded at the doorway of three rivers, to which numerous other streams were tributary, and in the H. Clark, the new Vice President. center of one of the richest agricultaral districts in the world, the fathers of our city were endowed with greater wisdom than they may be accredited with. The faith that a grand future awaited Salina has nevor been lost-even during years of business stagnation, when as many steps were taken backward as forward. But there was faith, not only a reduction of the tariff. with those at home but with those abroad, that Salina's future secondancy was as fixed and certain as the course of Nature. Yet with all the good predictions that have been made, no people have been more surprised than the prophets themselves with the progress that has been made during the past two years. Salina has entirely put aside her country airs, and is now a full-blown city in appearance and in fact. A system of guttering and carbing is bringing about wonderful changes in its streets. New and wide sidewalks of uniformity and substantiality please the eye and ease the pedestrian. The unsightly wooden awnings have entirely disappeared and sunlight and brightness add attractiveness to the avenues. The one-storied wooden building are rapidly making their disappearance, giving place to continuous lines of two and three storied structures, beautiful in design, and furnishing numerous palaces of trade. Gas, the Holly Water system and the street car lines have not come merely as an "advertisement," but for profit, and that is certain. The far-famed beauty of Sallus-accounted the handsomest city in the State by those who have traveled thoroughly in Hansa-Is increasing each year. THE following announcement creates much anxiety through the country, and should the plan be finally consummated, will result in great injury to commerce:

The millers of Minneapolis are discussing a stupendous scheme to con solidate all the mills under one man agement. Active steps have been taken, which are expected to result in the consolidation. Such a combination would make as much or as little flour as desired, and would control such product as it placed upon the market. Its effect on trade would be an instution as powerful as the Standthe consolidation.

ED. JOURNAL: - Mention was made last week in one of the city papers of the school interests of our city. In that connection I desire to make a suggestion: At the time the bonds were voted for the Second Ward School House it was promised by the then Board that the next school building should be erected on the east side of the river. The same promise was made at the time the bonds were voted for the addition to the Second Ward School house and it seems now to be conceded that we are to have a school house on the East side, but some people seem to think that a two room building would be sufficient for the "East Side." The suggestion could not have been made by any body who had examined the map of Satton Trees the line of t Salina. Draw the line on the map rom north to south on Seventh street All school buildings are west of Seventh street. What proportion of school children live west of Seventh street? Not more than one third of the school children of the city. The Third Ward, west of Seventh, has a school building which cost us $30,000 The Second Ward has a school buildng-also west of Seventh, which cost us $15,000. Where are the coming place to buy something for C school buildings needed? Where do is at D. & J. B. Whitehead's. the children, who are not well ac-commodated with school facilities, live? Manifestly in the First and Fourth Wards. Now my suggestion is that we build on the East aide, which (if our city council does its duty will soon be the Fifth Ward) a good four-room school house-that we build in the First Ward a house
